

Trainee ICU & Emergency

Latrobe Regional Hospital is a leading healthcare provider in regional Victoria offering a comprehensive range of specialist care across key medical and healthcare disciplines, including acute and sub-acute care, aged care, community care, psychiatric services, dental services and rehabilitation services. LRH is the principal referral hospital for the Gippsland region and serves a population of over 75,000 in the Latrobe Valley and over 260,000 across Gippsland.

We are currently seeking Advanced Trainees to join our ICU & Emergency Medicine teams.

The role will consist of six months training in the Emergency Department and a six-month rotation in Critical Care in the Latrobe Regional Hospital Critical Care Unit. This role will be suitable for 12 months ACEM accreditation including the mandatory 6 months' critical care component required for ACEM fellowship.

The Latrobe Regional Hospital Emergency Department manages over 36,000 presentations annually and is supported by 24 hour paediatric, anaesthetic and obstetric cover.

A major redevelopment was completed at the end of 2017 which saw a new and expanded Emergency Department open. The redevelopment also included a cardiac catheterisation laboratory.

LRH ICU is a 14-bed mix intensive care, high dependency and coronary care unit with over 1000 admissions a year with a wide medical and surgical case mix. The unit supports a broad range of critical care services including invasive and non-invasive ventilation, renal replacement therapy. LRH ICU is accredited for CICM foundation training and ACEM mandatory critical care training.

The successful applicant will be eligible for unconditional registration with the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency and will be an accredited Advanced Trainee with the Australasian College of Emergency Medicine.
